About Lemongrass

Lemongrass is a connected script typeface for display use. It was inspired by brush lettering and the idea of the sea and the strong winds that exist in Porto. These winds are called nortada, which was also the developing name of the font. It has low contrast and smooth connections to get a good rhythm in the text. Lemongrass can be used for branding and packaging where it will shine, but it can also be used in small texts creating beautiful content.

Lemongrass has lots of ligatures, swashes and alternative shapes that will allow to make your brand unique. It supports most western European languages making it a more useful display font.

Lemongrass Caps comes to complement the main style. The Caps were thought to be more clear in text in all caps. It gives more flexibility to the Lemongrass typeface.
